Chambermaid at the Barnum Thought Man on Bed Was Sleeping, Discovery Being Made Many Hours Later.

UNKNOWN AT HOTEL,
OTHER GUEST GONE

Opium Found in His Effects—Woman on Laclede Avenue, From Description, Thinks He Was Race-track Man.

The dead body of a man, whose identity has not been established, was found on a bed in room 15 at the Hotel Barnum, Sixth street, between Washington and St. Charles streets, Friday morning.

There were no signs of violence. A slight froth showed about the lips. The pillow was damp and smelled of acid. On his left hand was a small sore. A similar sore was found on his right leg. He had worn a brown plaid sack coat and vest, gray trousers, a white blue-striped shirt and a black soft hat.

Late last Saturday night two men registered at the hotel as T. Martin and H. H. Patterson of Illinois.

The two names were written on one line of the register, with the abbreviation, "Ill." following.

The men were assigned to the room and went to bed. They left the hotel Sunday morning.

About 1 a. m. Thursday the two men returned and again registered, asking to be assigned to the room they had previously occupied.

This time they registered as residing in St. Louis. One man was about 5 feet 10 inches in height, thin, smooth-faced, with shallow complexion, about 40 years old.

His companion was more heavily built, not quite so tall, with auburn hair, and was 45 years old.

Registered Again.

When they had registered the heavier man left the hotel, returning about 3 a. m. intoxicated.

From that hour nothing was seen of the man until the dead body of the heavier built of the two was found on the bed.

But Cora Stewart, a chambermaid at room 15 about 9 a. m. Thursday.

William Edwards, the colored porter, says he heard the sound of snoring coming from room 15 about 10 a. m. Thursday.

Late Thursday night, thinking that room 15 had been vacated, Night Clerk Carter assigned two other guests of the hotel to that room. When they were taken there it was seen that a man was lying on the bed, apparently asleep.

Carter thought the proprietor of the hotel, H. Walker, who acts as day clerk, might have assigned the room to someone, in he placed the new arrivals in another apartment.

When Walker reached the office Friday morning Carter asked him about it and they then went to room 15. The man was still on the bed.

They shook the supposed sleeping guest. Then it was discovered that he was dead.

In the dead man's pockets were found a package of gum opium wrapped in a Chinese newspaper, a slip of paper bearing the address, "Mrs. Maggie Teskey, 444 Laclede avenue," a letter addressed to Frank White, Grand Grove Farm, Worth, Ill., two race-track badges for the Delmar and Union tracks, a long steel hook for cleaning out the hoofs of a horse, and a purse in which were a few coppers.

No Marks Found.

There were a number of unused cigarette papers scattered about the floor, as if a package had been opened and allowed to blow loose.

The man's underclothing bore no marks that might lead to identification. His companion has not been seen since he went to bed Thursday morning and the man now dead went out returning later intoxicated.

Mrs. Margaret Teskey of 444 Laclede avenue says that a man known to her only as "Dick" answers the description of the dead man, with the exception that he was no mustache when she last saw him, last April.

This man was employed by her brother, George Coleman, who was a race-horse owner, and who died in New Orleans last March.

OZAR'S UNCLE QUITS
HIS ADMIRALTY POST

ST. PETERSBURG, June 16.—No act in official circles in the last few months has occasioned the surprise resulting from the resignation last night of the Grand Duke Alexis, uncle of the Czar and head of the Russian navy, and Admiral Avellan, head of the Russian Admiralty department.

The Grand Duke Alexis has been at the head of the Russian naval affairs ever since the work of building up the new Russian navy was begun under Czar Alexander III.

Members of the Grand Duke's retirement, as a result of the severe criticism heaped upon him, have been current ever since the early stages of the war, but they have been given little credit and the news of his actual retirement comes as a distinct surprise.

It is believed that the open character of the resignation, and the criticism which has been made of the navy department was responsible for the resignation.

Effort Being Made to Get Russia and Japan to Rest Their Arms Until Peace Commissioners Can Meet.

PLENIPOTENTIARIES ARE PRACTICALLY SELECTED

Each Nation Names Its Envoys and First Meeting Will Probably Be Held About First of August.

By Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A move which is being pushed with vigor along diplomatic channels today, supposedly at the instigation of President Roosevelt, though his hand does not show in the work, has for its object the immediate cessation of all hostilities in Manchuria.

It is taken for granted that the first step to be taken by the peace plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan when they meet here, will be the declaration of a formal armistice. The present indications are, however, that before this step is taken the Japanese troops will have forced another bloody battle, unless some move is made to call off Field Marshal Oyama and his dogs of war.

The plan is to draw up a peace protocol at once. The document will probably be framed in Washington, and signed by the representatives of Russia and Japan in that city, and will be binding only until the peace congress is assembled and has had time to declare a formal armistice.

Some fear is expressed here that Japan cannot be induced to sign the protocol. Gen. Oyama is now said to hold a strong strategic position and to be able to administer a crushing defeat to Gen. Linevitch and possibly cause him to surrender. The temptation to add one more to their series of brilliant victories is said to be strong with the Japanese.

No difficulty is apprehended in getting Russia to agree to the protocol, though it is to be expected that the Government will protest that it would prefer to give Linevitch an opportunity to thrash Oyama. It is believed, however, that the Czar understands the hopelessness of the situation of his troops and will not insist on another battle.

While the official announcements are not to be expected for several days, yet it is practically certain that the plenipotentiaries will be the Marquis Ito, Baron Komura, and if a third is named, Marshal Yamagata. Russia's plenipotentiaries will certainly be Baron Rosen and M. Neldorff, with several prominent statesmen mentioned for the third position.

A name has already been given to the proposed meeting, which is being designated as the "Washington Conference." It is not expected here that the delegates will arrive much before the first of August, and it would not be surprising if the sessions continued for several weeks.

GREASON ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Alleged Accomplice of Kate Edwards in Killing Latter's Husband at Liberty.

READING, Pa., June 16.—Samuel Greason, negro, was acquitted today of the murder of John Edwards, Mrs. Kate Edwards, wife of the murdered man, whose testimony convicted Greason more than three years ago, has now completely exonerated him.

Greason's death warrant has been issued 10 times and his case has developed into one of the most remarkable murder trials in this State.

Mrs. Edwards, the mother of Greason's child, is under sentence of death and it is expected that the Governor will fix the date for her execution within a short time. It was postponed several months ago that she might be used as a witness at Greason's trial.

Transportation Lines to Fight for Permanent Restraining Order—Shippers Denied the Right to Ask for Penalties.

KANSAS CITY, June 16.—Judge Smith McPherson of Red Oak, Mo., in the United States District Court here, today issued a temporary injunction restraining the State Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners of Missouri and the Attorney-General of the State from enforcing the maximum freight-rate law.

Three Kansas City shippers are also restrained from claiming penalties under the law.

The injunction was granted at the request of the railroad companies in Missouri, who brought suit against the State officials on the ground that the rates provided in the new law are prohibitive and would amount to the confiscation of their property.

The suit against the three Kansas City shippers is intended to cover all shippers in Missouri, who brought suit against the State officials on the ground that the rates provided in the new law are prohibitive and would amount to the confiscation of their property.

OLD MARKSMAN
DEAD AT TARGET
GIVES MYSTERY

Police Baffled as to Whether Dr. James A. Close's Death in Office Was Due to Accident, Suicide or Murder.

ECCENTRIC MAN'S HOME
WIRED AGAINST ROBBERS

Expert Revolver Shot Found Dying of Bullet Wound in Chest in Midst of Arsenal—Kept Weapons in Safe.

An inquest is in progress this afternoon into the strange death of Dr. James A. Close, who was found dying Thursday at 9:30 p. m. in his offices at 3338 Morgan street with a bullet wound in his chest.

It is expected to settle the question whether the doctor shot himself accidentally or with suicidal intent, or was murdered.

Firearms were the hobby of Dr. Close. If he accidentally shot himself it was because familiarity with deadly weapons had made him careless in handling them. If it was suicide, it would appear, in the absence of any other discoverable motive, that his knowledge of the deadliness of the weapons he thought so much of may have fascinated him and suggested obtaining the quick release by turning one of them on himself.

Whichever view is taken, his death is assignable to his fondling familiarity with the deadly weapons.

Dr. Close thought so much of his pistols that he kept them in a safe under the protection of a combination. And he kept his ammunition in another safe under lock and key.

This discovery was made Friday by Public Administrator Troll when he went to the house to take charge of the effects of the dead man. A large safe in the doctor's office, the door of which was not locked, for the evident reason that the doctor had just taken from it the revolver which ended his life, was found to contain 20 weapons of all kinds, most of them of the finest make.

A smaller safe in the hall was locked, but the key was found and it was discovered to be filled with all kinds of ammunition.

A third safe, under a combination lock, could not be opened and an expert was sent for.

Next to his weapon pad, the most curious thing about Dr. Close, who was regarded by the people of the neighborhood as eccentric, was his fear of a night intrusion. He went to extraordinary lengths in the precautions he took against anybody getting into the house at night.

Whether it was robbery or a murderous attack that he feared is not known. The front door he barricaded with a scantling, braced against the stairs, which made it invulnerable. Unable to barricade the other doors, he had the windows of his office were also protected by a device which was connected with an alarm even more ingenious.

The twine was attached to a little trap set like a "deadfall," such as boy-trappers set for small animals. If the twine was touched or broken the trap would fall, releasing a weight which would open the throttle of a whistle placed in the spout of a seltzer bottle filled with compressed air and the whistle would sound loudly for several moments.

It is thought that the same fear of burglars or a midnight attack by a possible enemy may have been at the bottom of his surrounding himself with firearms and constantly practicing with them.

Dr. F. C. Brooks of 76 North Channing avenue said:

"Dr. Close was dead when I arrived. He was lying on his face in the back part of the rear room near a target. A bullet wound in the center of the chest, just below the chest bone. The bullet appeared to have entered at a range of about 45 degrees, which would have carried it through the heart. I cannot conceive how a revolver could have been held so as to inflict such a wound accidentally."

Capt. Gaffney of the Ninth Police District said Friday morning: "The report made Thursday night led me to suppose that it was an accident, but after considering the strange circumstances this morning I have come to the conclusion that it was either suicide or murder. The latter supposition is strengthened by the fact that the doctor evidently feared an attack, as indicated by the unusual precautions he took by setting burglar traps."

Three women were in the house when the shot was fired. They were Miss Mollie Bodecker, his housekeeper; Miss Mollie Bodecker, his housekeeper; Miss Mollie Bodecker, his housekeeper.

At midnight Carl Johnson of Louisville reported to the police that he had been skinned by a man in the same manner at the same place. And the police said they would investigate that case, also.

The couple were married in St. Louis Dec. 28, 1925, and separated April 17, 1934, the petition for divorce being filed April 6, 1935.

Mrs. Fehl was accompanied to court Friday by her daughter, Susie, aged 17, two sons and a young Filipino named Ticio, who seemed to be on excellent terms with all save the father.

On the stand Mrs. Fehl was asked by the defendant's attorney, Louis Steber, if a number of other men had been in the defendant's home during the World's Fair, and she replied that some of the Filipinos had visited the house, and that on the occasion of a party on Thanksgiving evening, in November, 1934, one of the men had invited another Filipino and they had attended the party.

NEW ORDINANCE TO BURY WIRES

Bill Will Be Introduced Aimed at Western Union and Postal Companies.

The Board of Public Improvements has taken up the subject of underground wires again. President O'Reilly is framing a bill to be introduced in the Municipal Assembly granting the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies one year from the signing of the proposed ordinance in which to get their wires underground and their poles removed in what is known as the downtown district.

This district is bounded by the river, Twenty-second street, Wash and Spruce streets.

The original ordinance commanded these and all other wire-using companies to have their wires underground by March 10, 1906.

The other companies complied with the ordinance; these two did not. But the city authorities did not push them in the matter, owing to the fact that so much digging would have interfered with the central streets during the period of the World's Fair. Now the city proposes to see that the work is carried out.

The annual tax of $5 a pole imposed by the ordinance was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, and this provision will be omitted from the ordinance now being framed.

CALL DOCTOR TO CHLOROFORM DOG

Dispensary Physician Ends Life of Canine That Had Fit and Alarmed Neighbors.

Dr. Piker of the South Side Dispensary ran out of the front door of that institution at 11 o'clock Friday morning, carrying a bottle of chloroform in one hand and a towel in the other.

"Run quick!" cried the two children who had gone to summon him.

Dr. Piker obeyed and rapped violently on the front door of Joseph Burns' residence next door. Mr. Burns opened the door and Dr. Piker seized a small Scotch terrier in his arms.

The dog was having a fit. So were a dozen neighbors who were darning around in the street. But that was a different fit, and therefore a different story.

The doctor saturated the towel with chloroform and applied it where it would do the most good to the neighbors and the most harm to the terrier. In a few minutes the fitful fever of life was over with the dog.

Then the neighbors breathed easier and Dr. Piker returned to his station next door.

Sweet Girl Graduates and Serious Boys On the High School Program

Commencement Marked by Simple Dress of Graduates, Numbering 147.

BOYS' HOSIERY EXCEPTED

Feet Clad in Cream Gray Divide Interest With Essays and Music.

Ninety-seven young women and 50 young men received their diplomas as Central High School graduates Friday.

Christopher W. Johnson, president of the Board of Education, delivered the diplomas, and said some nice things about the class and the opportunities that lay before them.

The exercises were held in the Odeon, and there was no room left by the time the mothers, sisters and small brothers of the graduates got their seats.

There were more men present than at the Mary Institute graduation exercises held a few days ago, but yet the mer were hopelessly in the minority.

"Sweet Simplicity" came into her own at this commencement. It was not requested or suggested by the faculty, and maybe that was the reason; but at any rate, the 97 girls were dressed in the simplest and coolest fashion.

There were only three trains, and frills and furbelows were extremely scarce. The dresses were mostly of Irish linen, and made plain. Many of the girls carried small bouquets of marguerites, the class flower, and asparagus, but there was no pretentious drill in the manner of carrying bouquets.

Some of the pupils and their parents who drove to the Odeon in carriages showed true class patriotism by decorating their whips with ribbons of the class colors of green and white and the school colors of red and blue.

High school cadets acted as ushers, and had their troubles with the big, good-natured but insistent crowd.

A corps of teachers doing "police duty" throughout the auditorium prevented any boisterous applause, and except for a few vigorous whistles when Gracie Webster, one of the school athletes, got his diploma, the audience was very circumspect. The boys out-ranked the girls in the matter of applause.

The class—the largest in the history of Central High, and perhaps the largest ever to be known there, as the two other high schools now have their own classes—filled the stage. The 97 young women were ranged at each end; the 50 young men, in four rows, were placed in the center, boldly facing the audience.

Hosiery, Cream Gray. They sedately enough, the young men. Each of them had a marguerite on his coat lapel; each had carefully creased trousers; and each, as he sat down carefully and "hitched up" the trousers in a manner to preserve the crease, displayed the fact that he had a pair of socks.

For the most part, these socks, thus revealed, were a dainty cream gray, with openwork vines running through the thread. GIRLS, NO FRILLS, AT CENTRAL HIGH

Commencement Marked by Simple Dress of Graduates, Numbering 147.

BOYS' HOSIERY EXCEPTED

Feet Clad in Cream Gray Divide Interest With Essays and Music.

Ninety-seven young women and 50 young men received their diplomas as Central High School graduates Friday.

Christopher W. Johnson, president of the Board of Education, delivered the diplomas, and said some nice things about the class and the opportunities that lay before them.

The exercises were held in the Odeon, and there was no room left by the time the mothers, sisters and small brothers of the graduates got their seats.

There were more men present than at the Mary Institute graduation exercises held a few days ago, but yet the mer were hopelessly in the minority.

"Sweet Simplicity" came into her own at this commencement. It was not requested or suggested by the faculty, and maybe that was the reason; but at any rate, the 97 girls were dressed in the simplest and coolest fashion.

There were only three trains, and frills and furbelows were extremely scarce. The dresses were mostly of Irish linen, and made plain. Many of the girls carried small bouquets of marguerites, the class flower, and asparagus, but there was no pretentious drill in the manner of carrying bouquets.

Some of the pupils and their parents who drove to the Odeon in carriages showed true class patriotism by decorating their whips with ribbons of the class colors of green and white and the school colors of red and blue.

High school cadets acted as ushers, and had their troubles with the big, good-natured but insistent crowd.

A corps of teachers doing "police duty" throughout the auditorium prevented any boisterous applause, and except for a few vigorous whistles when Gracie Webster, one of the school athletes, got his diploma, the audience was very circumspect. The boys out-ranked the girls in the matter of applause.

The class—the largest in the history of Central High, and perhaps the largest ever to be known there, as the two other high schools now have their own classes—filled the stage. The 97 young women were ranged at each end; the 50 young men, in four rows, were placed in the center, boldly facing the audience.

GIRL IS FINED $3 FOR QUARRELING

Miss Wells Remained a Prisoner While Her Mother Went After Money.

Dressed stylishly in a white duck suit, Miss Martha Wells, aged 18, put her pretty white shoes nervously in front of the iron-barred cell of Wyoming Street Police Court Friday morning, while her mother hurried to their home, 6716 South Broadway, to get $3, the amount of the costs assessed against Miss Wells by Judge Kiebler, on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Layton of 6720 South Broadway was the prosecuting witness. She averred that Miss Wells had abused her. She introduced Miss Blanche Whitney and Mrs. Ganser, neighbors, to substantiate her story.

Miss Wells, supported by her mother and younger sister, declared she had not abused Mrs. Layton. She admitted that she had taken her to task and she declared, rightfully, because she had overheard a conversation in Mrs. Layton's house in which it was said that Miss Wells' mother had flirted with the driver of a coal wagon.

Mrs. Layton denied this.

The stylishly dressed girl appeared in court evidently so confident of acquittal that neither she nor her mother brought money. When the Judge assessed costs, she became defiant and said she would not pay $3 for what she had done.

The Marshal was ordered to take her into custody. He did not place her in a cell like an ordinary prisoner, but he marooned her where it would be only a few steps of the white shoes to the iron-barred cell. Seeing her daughter in this position, Mrs. Wells quickly got the money and purchased her liberty.

STRANGLER BOTTS SOBS ON SCAFFOLD

PEORIA, Ill., June 16.—After a sleepless but cheerful night, Otis Botts, who strangled his wife with a hair ribbon, broke down on the scaffold this morning and was swung into eternity weeping and begging for mercy.

The death watch was fairly astonished at their ward's jovial behavior before the last march began. He laughed, jested and told stories until the hour for breakfast, which he ate with an excellent appetite.

Seeing an undertaker's wagon passing outside his cell window, he remarked: "I guess that's my box. Wonder what it looks like?"

He expressed a wish to have all his friends see him die, but requested his mother to stay away from the jail as he feared her presence would shake his courage.

When the Sheriff started with him toward the scaffold he began to show signs of collapse, however. To Father Sammon, who accompanied him, he repeatedly declared his innocence.

On the trap he suddenly broke down completely, weeping bitterly and exclaiming: "For all my sins I am sorry. May God have mercy on my soul."

He was hardly able to stand until the trap was sprung. Botts was only 21 years old.

REUNION CLOSED BY A MARTIAL PARADE

Confederate Veterans Finish Business of Annual Meeting at Louisville.

LEE IS AGAIN COMMANDER

Opposition to Candidacy Withdrawn—New Orleans Next Convening Place.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 16.—Having finished the transaction of the business of their annual meeting, elected officers for another year and selected New Orleans as the city in which to hold their reunion next year, the United Confederate Veterans closed their sessions here with a great military parade of the veterans of the armies of the South, and are holding social reunions by groups before saying good-by to Louisville.

Nearly all of the veterans and the sons of Veterans, who met here in conjunction with the older organization, will leave the city tonight. Many of them left this morning.

The officers elected for the coming year are: Commander-in-Chief, Lieutenant-General Stephen D. Lee, Mississippi; commander, trans-Mississippi department, Lieutenant-General W. L. Cabell, Texas; commander Army of Tennessee Department, Lieutenant-General Clement A. Evans, Georgia; commander Army of Northern Virginia Department, C. Irvine Walker, South Carolina.

Opposition to the re-election of Gen. Lee was withdrawn and his choice was unanimous. So were all the others.

New Orleans had very little opposition in securing the vote for the reunion next year.

Some squabbling was indulged in over committee appointments. This was the result of the discovery that a former Federal soldier was on one of the committees from the Indian Territory. He is Col. S. H. Russell, and his name was stricken from the rolls. J. J. Kendall was substituted.

Fraternal greetings were exchanged with the G. A. R. holding annual encampment at Madison, Ind.

It was announced that Battle Abbey of the South is now assured, the money having been raised for its construction; also that $8,000 had been collected and placed in bank for the erection of a monument to Jefferson Davis at Richmond.

The parade was a grand, an imposing— if pathetic—spectacle, the old, gray-haired men opposing the fact to all observers that, flower of their section as once they were, they are rapidly going the way of the flowers—to bud, blossom, wither and fall.

"It's the last parade," more than one veteran was heard to say, as he watched the old gray-headed men who wore the gray uniforms move on their way, himself unable to be among them. Those old boys can't march very many times more. Their marching days are over," and then, in a burst of pride, up would go a rebel yell, the like of which was never given by any men but Confederate soldiers.

Louisville has done herself proud in the entertainment of the old soldier boys, and all go away loud in their praise of Kentucky hospitality.

$7.50 FOR WORTHLESS NOTE

Woman Took $10 Carolina Bill for Board, Giving Change.

Mrs. Sarah A. Hardfield, who conducts a rooming house at 127 North Eighteenth street, has in her possession a $10 note issued by the State Bank of South Carolina in 1850. It cost her $7.50 and a slip-up in the rent of a room, but she doesn't think it worth that much as a curiosity.

Last Tuesday a stranger rented a room from Mrs. Hardfield and gave her the $10 bill, and she handed him back $2.50, having deducted $2.50, the amount charged for week's rent. When the man went away and has not since returned.

When Mrs. Hardfield, becoming suspicious, showed the queer looking old bill to others, she was told that it was worthless. She then reported the case to the police.

TRUST KIND TO NEW YORK

Meat Combine Cuts Prices of Beef, Veal and Lamb.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 16.—The Packers' combine has reduced the price of prime beef at wholesale in New York an average of three-quarters of a cent a pound. Lamb has gone down more than beef. Veal, too, has been reduced, though only a trifle.

And to top the climax, the Beef Trust is now supplying New York the best meat—that is, the freshest meat—that ever came out of the icebox, whereas last summer the Trust was delivering to local butchers beef, mutton and veal which had been in cold storage an average of 14 days.

Poultry and eggs are high, and the wholesalers say there is no chance for poultry to become cheaper. New Yorkers have grown so fond of fowl there is never enough to supply the demand.

CIRCUS MEN ARE WORSTED

Three Showmen and One Native Shot in Fight at Aurora, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
AURORA, Mo., June 16.—A row occurred here while a circus was loading on cars preparatory to leaving town, between some natives and followers of the show. Dave Tunnel and Will Fleming, two local men, thought they had not been treated right, and sought satisfaction. First there was a quarrel and then a fight. The result was that three of the circus men were badly shot up, while one of the natives got a bunature in the heel from a bullet. The natives were locked up pending the circus men getting out of town or preferring charges.

No charges have been preferred.

BATTLESHIP FOR FAR EAST

Naval Board Decides to Add Another Vessel to Asiatic Fleet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Naval War College and the General Board of the Navy recommended to Secretary Morton that on account of the present situation in the far East another battleship be added to the Asiatic fleet, and an order to that effect probably will be issued.

The general board, at the head of which is Admiral Dewey, is not alarmed by any fear of war with Japan over the Philippines, but it believes that as a matter of policy the American naval force in the East should be strengthened to maintain the dignity of the United States and to more closely approach the present dominant power of Japan. Admiral Dewey is a firm believer in the policy of being always prepared for the unexpected, and the other members of the general board share his views.

There now are three battleships in the Asiatic fleet, the Wisconsin, Oregon and Iowa. The fourth one will be sent from Admiral Evans' fleet of eight battleships. There is considerable objection to breaking up Admiral Evans' double squadron formation, but Mr. Morton has indicated that the recommendation of the general board will be carried out.

WOMAN BOSS IN KITCHEN

NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 16.—If a man wants to "sass" the woman of the house he must do it outside of the kitchen, according to remarks made by Judge Swartz today in his charge to the jury in the case of Warren Iredell, of Pottstown, charged by his sister-in-law with choking her because she did not have breakfast ready.

The judge said: "It seems to me that the woman of the house is the boss of the kitchen, and no one has the right to interfere with her duties." But the judge made a distinction in instructing the jury that "when a woman keeps boarders and takes their money she should provide meals, or else give them a chance to prepare them themselves."

BRITISH ARMY BOARD AFTER EX-ST. LOUISAN

Investigating Committee Makes Charges Concerning Henry C. Meyer in Connection With Deals by Boer War Stores Department in Africa.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1905, by the Press Publishing Co. (New York World).

LONDON, June 16.—H. T. Meyer, whom the report of Sir William Butler's committee sensationally accuses of engineering deals with the Boer War Stores Department of the British Army in the Boer War, is an American, a resident of St. Louis.

The committee appointed to investigate charges of graft by contractors and army officials in the Boer War made its report this week.

It asserts that Meyer's transactions in buying oats from the Boer War Stores Department and selling them back to it, brought him $10,000 a day at one time.

DRAKE'S 'CHAUFFEUR' SMASHES MACHINE

Millionaire, Driving Big French Auto, Wrecks Another Car and His Own.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 16.—John A. Drake, with a brand-new $13,000 French automobile, essayed as his own chauffeur to go to and from the races. The result was disastrous. In Drake's own words, "They are bringing the machine home on a wheelbarrow."

ST. LOUIS JOCKEY WON SUBURBAN

Frankie O'Neil Rode Victorious Beldame—Cook Winner of Double Event.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
The two St. Louis horses, First Mason and English Lad, were beaten in the Suburban, but Jockey Frankie O'Neil, a St. Louis boy, rode the winner of the big stake, Beldame.

"I went down to the track," continued, "with L. I. Smith, a Chicago friend, and 'Christie' Churchill from Louisville. We wanted to get away at the end of the fifth race, but 'Christie' found an old friend, who told him memories would win the last race, and he won such a roll that we did not get away before the crowd was leaving."

George C. Bennett, winner of the $20,000 Double Event at Coney Island, is owned by Fred Cook of St. Louis. George C. Bennett was named for the well-known Memphis turfman, and had an unbeaten record at Louisville in the spring. He is thought to be the 2-year-old champion of the year.

"Then I got into more trouble. I reversed my machine to get out of the wreck. I overstepped a bit, because before we stopped we hit a telegraph pole behind us with such a bump that we all went over backwards. The machine was nearly split in two and there could be no 'anything but' it. It could carry us home. So we got a horse."

The accident happened at Avenue U and a great crowd was on hand to witness it. Many men ran forward to aid Drake and his friends, thinking they must be hurt. But they were not. Drake landed near a pool of water, and without getting up, he turned around and bathed his sore head. This put his companions in good humor. They assisted the Peabody party and called a carriage to take them home.

The story of the accident has been carefully investigated by Mrs. Drake at the Waldorf-Astoria. She has been there for 10 days.

ANGER CAUSES LOCKJAW

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 16.—What physicians say is the first authentic case in the city of tetanus, trismus, or lockjaw, resulting from grief or anger, is at the Harlem Hospital.

The patient is Joseph Golserano, 28 years old. He arrived here from Italy on June 1, with $5 in cash. He had been here only a few hours when he was swindled out of the money by some of the numerous padrones who infest the Battery and Italian quarters.

Golserano became grief-stricken over the loss of his money, which he had intended to use in continuing his journey westward. He went to the home of a friend and would sit for hours grinding and gnashing his teeth and clenching his hands and cursing the men who had taken his money. He became more and more melancholy and angry, and five days after he landed he found that his jaws were closed and that he could no longer open them even to curse his enemies.

He went at once to a doctor in attendance at one of the charitable dispensaries, who told him that he ought to go to the Harlem Hospital. He went there on the afternoon of June 5 and the disease has grown worse each day. The man is very weak because of the lack of food. He has been unable to swallow anything and has lived on what little liquid food that could be forced down his throat.

The surgeons of the hospital will put a silver tube in his throat so that he can be fed.

Y., and Mrs. A. H. Harris. Apawamie, was pitted against Miss Gertrude Travers of the Nassau Golf Club, Glen Cove, L. I.

Woodbury Talks About the Hair

Have You Ever Consulted Any One Who Really Knows Anything About the Hair?

About every other barber is totally bald or well on the way to baldness. Yet your barber will answer questions about the hair with an air of authority that would be impressive if it were not a huge joke.

The barber's advice about the hair ends as a rule in recommending a tonic that he will rub into your hair at ten cents or more a rub.

If you show unusual signs of weakness as will sell you a bottle of the tonic to take home with you to use betimes.

The price of hair tonics in barber shops ranges upward from a dollar. As to what the tonic contains the barber knows absolutely nothing.

It is safe to say that in nine cases out of ten the tonic will do injury to both your hair and scalp.

Men who are bald or on the way to baldness give advice about the hair with lavish freedom.

They have tried every nostrum advertised.

They have read the literature that goes along with the package.

Hair follicles, dandruff, seborrhea and all the intricacies of the hair problem are to them as an open book.

They share with you their knowledge while they keep on getting balder and balder each day.

Think for a moment of the men who have given you advice about the care of your hair, and the inventory will disclose the balddest-headed men of your acquaintance.

It is ridiculous beyond words. Is it not?

But the care of the hair has been given thought and attention.

For 33 years the specialists of the Woodbury Institute have studied the causes of every known disease of the hair and scalp.

Thousands upon thousands have come under their observation, and for each disease they have found the remedy.

Their accumulated knowledge means something. They speak with authority when treatment is prescribed.

Their word is final and authoritative. When they say that certain results can be attained by certain treatment those results will certainly be accomplished.

Come yourself to the Woodbury Institute and learn just what should be done to preserve or restore your own hair.

A consultation costs absolutely nothing. If you can't call send by mail two or three hairs pulled from your head and a microscope will analyze them and suggest treatment.

If you really want to know the truth about your hair accept this offer.

FACIAL BLEMISHES.
Blackheads, Pimples, Freckles, Superficial Hair, Warts, Moles, Birthmarks and all other Facial Blemishes, as well as Facial Irritations and Deformities, when treated by the Specialists of the Woodbury Institute, are removed permanently, leaving no trace of their being.

For 33 years the Woodbury Institute has held supremacy in the treatment of all diseases of the Skin, Hair and Nails.

Whatever disease or blemish stands in the way of your social or business success can be successfully treated by the Woodbury Specialists without loss of time from your regular routine.

ONE HOLE REMOVED FREE.
To prove how simple is the Woodbury method of removing holes, any one who brings this advertisement to the Woodbury Institute during the present week, can have one hole removed without the payment of any fee whatever.

U. S. SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA

Recommends Pe-ru-na Stomach Troubles and Dyspepsia

Ex-Senator M. C. Butler.

Hon. M. C. Butler, ex-U. S. Senator from South Carolina, two terms, in a letter from Washington, D. C., writes to the Peruna Medicine Co. as follows: "I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine, besides a good tonic."

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh—Whether of the Stomach or Any Other Organ, Therefore Pe-ru-na Cures Dyspepsia.

Dyspepsia Is Nothing More Nor Less Than Catarrh of the Stomach.

Dyspepsia Remedies Are Useless—Remove the Cause—This is the Only Rational Means of Cure.

Pe-ru-na Cures Catarrh—Whether of the Stomach or Any Other Organ, Therefore Pe-ru-na Cures Dyspepsia.

ATARRH of the stomach is the correct name for most cases of dyspepsia.

To undertake to treat dyspepsia by the use of palliatives is only to temporarily relieve without permanent results. In order to cure catarrh of the stomach the catarrh must be eradicated.

To eradicate the catarrh, a catarrh remedy must be used. Manifestly, a local catarrh remedy cannot be used in such cases.

Only an internal catarrh remedy, such as Peruna, is available. Peruna exactly meets the indications.

Do Not Delay. If you suffer from indigestion or dyspepsia, and have tried ordinary remedies without relief, it is safe to assume that your case is one of catarrh of the stomach.

Do not neglect this condition. Delays are dangerous.

A bottle of Peruna taken now will save you much needless suffering and expense.

GREENE AND HEINZE MAY GET TOGETHER

Consolidation of Interests of Independent Copper Kings Is Probable.

BOTH FIGHTING TRUST

Each Has Had a Battle and Neither Was Put Out of Business.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Col. William C. Greene, vice-president of the Greene Consolidated Copper Co. and its allied companies, and F. Augustus Heinze, the ruling spirit in the United Copper Co., which has been fighting the Amalgamated Copper Co. in Montana for years, had a conference on Tuesday last, but both men left here to visit their properties.

As a result it is not unlikely that the next few months will see a merger of the Greene and Heinze copper interests.

Col. Greene and Mr. Heinze left this city together, although the former was for Sonora, Mexico, and the latter for British Columbia, and, according to private dispatches, they had another conference in Chicago on Wednesday.

The negotiations have not gone far enough to admit of any detailed discussion of terms, but it is said that the merger will take the form of an actual consolidation of properties, brought about probably through a holding company.

The announcement of the prospective merger puts an end to talk that has been current in Wall street for months that negotiations were on between Mr. Heinze and Mr. H. H. Rogers or some other representative of the Amalgamated Copper Co. for the purchase of the United Copper Co. by the Amalgamated.

The new commission if worked out will prove the most formidable rival that the Amalgamated Copper Co. has encountered since its formation.

The Greene Consolidated Co. produces somewhat more than 50,000,000 pounds of copper a year. It is capitalized at $2,000,000, the shares selling at a par value of $100. The United Copper Co. has an output of more than 50,000,000 pounds and an outstanding $5,000,000 preferred and $5,000,000 common stock. The par value of the shares is $100. Neither company has any bonded debt.

In addition to its corporate phase the merger of the Greene and Heinze companies would bring together two of the most picturesque men that Wall street has known in years.

Col. Greene, ex-ranchman, and "gun-fighter," who is said to have several notches in the butt of the revolver that defended him in earlier days, came into New York six or eight years ago and organized, in a small way, his copper company. The business grew, and Col. Greene branched out into the gold and silver mining business, maintaining at the same time extensive ranches in the Southwest.

His enterprises have been always essentially of a personal character, and the result has been that at different times he has been in combat with nearly all the financial camps on Wall street.

It was not more than a year ago that John W. Gates and others tried to rout him in a Greene copper company fight. Some lively times followed, in which the stock dropped on the curb as rapidly as the Greene gold had dropped in the last few days but the end was the same as in other contests of the same kind. Mr. Gates and his associates got out of the company.

One of the most interesting chapters in Heinze's history is the attempt of a Standard Oil group of capitalists a few years ago, when Heinze was hardly out of his twenties, to put him out of business because he dared to "buck" the Amalgamated. The attempt has not succeeded yet.

TO LIMIT HEIGHT OF HOTELS

Bill Exempting Hoteliers Resubmitted to Committee.

The bill was resubmitted to the committee at Thursday evening's meeting of the Council at the suggestion of Building Commissioner Smith, who suggested that there ought to be some limit.

Bills appropriating $400 for horses for the Coroner's office and a like amount for a horse and wagon for the Boiler and Elevator Inspection Department were passed.

House bill No. 2, authorizing the Suburban Electric Railway to lay tracks on private property on Thirteenth street, was passed. The tracks were laid several years ago, under a permit from the Mayor.

MEYERS JURY SAID TO HAVE SEPARATED

Six Affidavits Filed by Attorneys for Condemned Woman for New Trial.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 16.—Joseph Brooks, attorney for Mrs. Agnes Meyers, has filed six affidavits in the Circuit Court at Liberty in support of a motion for a new trial.

All the affidavits are that the jury was permitted to separate during the trial. Three affidavits are that the jury at the hotel say some of the jurors left the dining room before others had finished their meal.

The other two say that a part of the jury on the way to the courthouse went into Mrs. Meyers' saloon while the others stayed out on the sidewalk.

Judge Alexander, who tried the case, has set next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock as a day for hearing the arguments on the motion. If the motion is denied, Mrs. Meyers will be sentenced to hang.

BEYING ON RACES IS NOW UNLAWFUL

Delmar Track Will Try to Evade Statute, but Union Closed Up Friday.

GOVERNOR ON THE WATCH

He Has Asked Attorney-General for Opinion and Will Enforce Law.

Friday is the last day of the life of the "breeders' law," passed several years ago to place racetrack betting under the control of the State.

The law was repealed at the last session of the Legislature in response to an aroused public sentiment, led by the Post-Dispatch, against racetrack gambling of all kinds. The purpose of the repeal bill and of the kindred law making racetrack gambling a felony was to put a stop to such gambling.

Of the two St. Louis racetracks Union will close, but Delmar, controlled by the Cella-Adler-Tilles combination, will continue and make an effort to permit betting on races while at the same time evading the law.

The Delmar officials say the track itself will have nothing to do with the betting, although they will make no effort to prevent it. The betting will be, ostensibly, between patrons, and no tickets will be issued. The protection of the betting patron will have to be the honesty of the man with whom he makes the bet, and the number of his admission badge which, he is told, is noted by the taker of his bet. If he wins, he will show this badge and get the amount of his bet and winnings.

An organization has been formed which is supposed to control the bookmakers under this system, and to stand between the betting public and "watchers." The track officials say they have nothing to do with this, however; the bookmakers are admitted as any other patron.

Heretofore the track has been paid $5 a day by word of the bookmakers. Now the track loses this sum, but will try to get even by raising its admission fee from $1. with plenty of passes, to $1.50, with very few passes.

Gov. Folk has not as yet issued instructions to the sheriff of St. Louis County, in which the grandstand and betting ring of Delmar track are located, as to what course is to be pursued in regard to the betting.

In reply to an inquiry of the Post-Dispatch Friday as to what will be done, the Governor said:

"I have submitted the question to Attorney-General Hadley and will take no steps until I have his opinion. He is out of the city, but will return tonight. If the turf association is found to be conducting its business contrary to the statutes of the State it will be stopped; you can say that much."

FLYNN TO QUIT OFFICE.

Coal Oil Inspector Says He Will Retire June 18.

William J. Flynn, coal oil inspector, made the following statement Friday morning:

"I wish to retire from office when my term expires June 18th and I will retire. I have served three years and I think I have done my duty. I have turned over more money to the State than any of my predecessors in office. I was never an applicant for re-appointment and would have had no objection to anyone who might have been named as my successor."

Gov. Folk has named William F. Culp to succeed Mr. Flynn. The Council of Delegates has approved his nomination, but the House of Delegates has delayed action in the matter.

Should the House fail to approve the nomination at its final meeting before the summer adjournment Friday night, the office will be vacant until September, in view of Mr. Flynn's announcement.

WHAT BECOMES OF WELLS?

Property owners will hereafter be given an opportunity to appear before the Board of Health to show cause why city water should not be put in houses or dwellings belonging to them, after the wells or cisterns by which drinking water is supplied to them have been condemned by the board upon a report by the City Chemist.

This decision was made when the case of August H. Vordick of 220 North Jefferson avenue came up. Mr. Vordick owns the property at 224 Papin street. On this property is a well and a cistern. An examination, City Chemist Bernays says, showed the water in both well and cistern to be unfit to drink. Instead of the city installing water in the place, the water has been in the cistern. Mr. Vordick will be given a chance to see the board what action he is willing to take in the matter.

VEHICLE OWNERS IN COURT

Seventy-five vehicle owners were in the City Hall Police Court Friday morning charged with failure to buy city licenses.

They were arrested Thursday afternoon and evening in a general raid made by the police.

About twenty-five of them had licenses, but had failed to display them on their vehicles. These brought their licenses into court and were let off with a warning to put them where they could be seen.

The other 50 were given a chance to go over to the office of the License Commissioner and buy licenses, which they all did. When they came back and showed their licenses to the Judge he let them off with the payment of costs, which amounted to $3 in each case. They were warned that another time they would not get off so easily.

GOSSIP.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Ferguson of Clemens avenue will spend the summer abroad, sailing June 21. They expect to be away all summer.

Miss J. Frank Cummings of Clifton avenue entertained a number of young people at her home Thursday evening with an informal dinner in honor of her cousin, Mr. Fowler, who is visiting here from Chicago.

Signor Guido Parisi has returned from Kansas City and Edwardsville. He will leave in a few days for New York and Europe and spend most of the summer in Paris and Rome. He will return to St. Louis in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Blittman have sold their home on Fountain avenue and with their little son have gone out to Webster to board for the summer.

QUARRELING OVER CONVICT LABORERS

Contractors and Prison Officials Disagree With Result That Outsiders Are Barred.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 16.—Considerable friction has developed lately between the warden of the Penitentiary and the Board of Inspectors of that institution on the one hand and several of the contractors doing business in the prison on the other.

Three of the largest contractors engaged in the manufacture of shoes are preparing to leave the institution and engage in the same business on the outside and use what is known as "square" labor. Two of these firms, the Gleasons-Dench Shoe Co. and the J. B. Brum Shoe Co., are having large factory buildings constructed on the outside and expect to move from the prison in two or three months. In anticipation of moving they have, so it is alleged by the prison officials, taken advantage of the law which permits to employ only a minimum number of convicts in the prison shops. The law is further alleged, have been breaking in a number of apprentices from the outside, thus materially reducing the earnings of the State from the hire of convicts.

In order to offset this the Board of Prison Inspectors will issue shortly an order that only the necessary foremen and heads of departments will be permitted to be used by the shoe companies inside the prison walls. This will mean the breaking in of "square" labor inside. Only convicts will be permitted to work in the prison shops, with the exception, as stated, of necessary foremen and heads of departments. The shoe companies will leave the prison and do so because they would not agree to a raise of 10 cents per day per convict.

The raise was made last year during the Dockery administration and on the face of it, it appeared to be quite to the advantage of the State, but there were clauses in the new contracts that rendered them in reality more favorable to the contractors at the new rate of 50 cents per man per day than the old contract at 40 cents per day. The removal of the three companies from the prison will leave a number of unemployed convicts, but it is asserted they will be absorbed by the shoe companies outside and by new manufacturers with whom the State is negotiating.

To Sell at Lot a Minute.

The big auction at Tower Grove Heights will be held tomorrow. The agents say that the sale has been well advertised and that its success is up to the buyers. The inquiry has been very wide, and no doubt a large crowd will be present. In order to sell all the lots, an average of a lot a minute will have to be sold. The trust company has engaged two auctioneers to assist in the sale. Mammoth tents will be erected on the ground so that in the event of rain the sale will proceed just the same. The agents state that their instructions from the owners are to sell every lot and that they confidently expect bargains to be sold. No real estate sale in St. Louis has ever attracted more general attention, and as the property is in a growing district of the city, it is generally thought among the agents that it will all be sold, though some of them believe the property will have to be sacrificed in order to dispose of so many lots in one day.

BREAKS UP EXERCISE TO PRESENT $40,000

Morrisville Man Interrupts the Commencement Program to Bequeath His Fortune.

SAYS LORD DIRECTS HIM

Thomas Cunningham Becomes Benefactor of Community That Dislikes Him.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

MORRISVILLE, Mo., June 16.—During the commencement exercises of the Morrisville College Wednesday night Thomas Cunningham, a prosperous farmer, banker and stockman, interrupted the exercises and said he desired to make a speech. The intrusion was resented by the young people until Mr. Cunningham stated that he was responsible to dead and his property in lands and bankable notes, amounting in all to $40,000, to the institution.

In his speech Mr. Cunningham said that his neighbors had looked upon him with hatred and contempt because they believed that he was responsible for their losses as depositors during the failure of the Bank of Commerce of Springfield, of which he was a director in 1893, and in the bank of T. M. Cummings, his nephew, in Morrisville in 1896, and that since those occurrences in which he had lost all his fortune, his house has been stoned at night and, in passing along the roads he had been hooted at and called bank robber.

Last Sunday afternoon a horse ran away with Mrs. Cunningham and her niece, Miss Jewett, a daughter of Cassville, Mo., and threw them out. They narrowly escaped death. Mr. Cunningham announced when his wife and niece were brought home that the Lord had showed him a great light and that he determined at that moment to become the Lord's steward and turn his property over to the education of the young.

He gives a 300-acre farm, cattle and horses worth $15,000, his town residence, and $10,000 worth of notes. He will devote his life hereafter to the college as a teacher, serving gratuitously.

Mr. Cunningham's action caused great surprise. He was graduated from Morrisville College in 1872 and was at one time a school teacher, but more recently a successful cattle trader.

The transfer of his property will take place at once.

County Clerk Puts the Lid on Youthful Applicants.

Young persons who want to be sure of getting a marriage license in Belleville would do well to take birth certificates or other indubitable evidence of their ages along. County Clerk Thomas is putting the lid on licenses for applicants about whose ages there is doubt. Another license was refused Friday, making about the seventh in the last two weeks.

The couple refused Friday were Harry Leske and Irene Benson, both of St. Louis. Harry said he was 22 and Irene declared she was 18, but they both looked younger and Deputy County Clerk Stokes turned them away.

No fan needed

Franklin air-cooling is so completely adequate to all requirements that our 12 horse-power cars do not even need a fan.

These cars will do—and have done—more than any other cars of their weight ever did. No car ever made such a long distance record as the little 2-passenger Franklin made last summer from San Francisco to New York in less than 33 days—to say nothing of racing and hill-climbing contests—and the average heavy 20 horse-power car costing $2000 will not begin to carry its four or five passengers over average American roads as swiftly, comfortably and safely as the Franklin Light Touring Cars at $1650.

And all this without over-heating and without fans. Come in and let us demonstrate and explain these facts to your satisfaction.

Stickney's "New Tariff" Cigar 5c.

The new commercial treaty between the United States and Cuba has made it possible for us to put ten-cent tobacco into a five-cent cigar, as the duty on Cuban tobacco was reduced when the treaty was signed.

It was the "new tariff" that made this quality of cigar buyable for five cents, and that is why we gave it this name—"New Tariff." You can't forget the name—"New Tariff." But don't wait until you forget we told you that it was a ten-cent cigar for five cents. Smoke one now and you'll pay five cents for your next cigar instead of ten cents.

Stickney's "New Tariff" Cigar is a product of all the modern processes that can be applied to the preparation of tobacco for smoking.

And more: The processes of cultivating and curing tobacco are being systematically developed, and improvement in one way or another is produced every day. Certain processes in the ripening and blending of the fragrant leaf have been so recently invented that the "New Tariff" Cigar is the first to embody their results. It is a rich, even, luxurious and satisfying smoke.

FIGHTS TO POSSESS AN INCUBATOR BABY

Mrs. Blakely, Who Left Child in St. Louis, Sues Barclays Who Adopted It

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SEDALIA, Mo., June 15.—A legal battle for the possession of one of the incubator babies exhibited at the World's Fair last year will be inaugurated at Moline, Ill., tomorrow.
The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Blakely of Lawrence, Kan., and was born Feb. 15, 1904, in St. Louis. Mrs. Blakely, who had separated from her husband, left St. Louis as soon as she was able to travel, and it is alleged, she made no provision for the care of the babe, who was subsequently given to the incubator concessionaires on the Pike.
Among those who saw and admired the child were Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barclay, a childless couple then of St. Louis, but now of Moline. At the close of the fair Mr. and Mrs. Barclay legally adopted the babe. The adoption papers were drawn by Lawyer X. P. Wilkey of St. Louis.
Recently Mrs. Blakely, who is now being sued for divorce by her husband, desired to reclaim the babe. She visited St. Louis and ascertained that the Barclays had the child at Moline. Two weeks ago she went to Moline and asked for the return of the babe, on the ground that it had been taken from her by fraudulent means. Her request was refused and legal proceedings were instituted, the case being set for June 17.
The Barclays, who are wealthy, will leave nothing undone to retain possession of the child.
The case gives promise of attracting wide attention, and will prove of special interest to many people in Missouri, Kansas and Illinois, who are cognizant of some of the facts, but not all of them.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE AGAINST O'MALLEY

Editor and Part of Staff of New Orleans Daily Item Are in Prison.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—Dominick C. O'Malley, editor and proprietor of the Daily Item, was arrested and imprisoned this morning on the charge of conspiring to assassinate the newly elected Chief of Police, E. S. Whitaker. His managing editor, E. S. Smalley, who has worked on the St. Louis newspapers, was a little later also arrested and put in a cell, accused of passing a bogus draft.
An additional charge against O'Malley of importing and protecting pickpockets and thieves in their operations was also made.
O'Malley was indicted in 1891 on a charge of implication in the assassination of Chief of Police Hennessy. He left the city at the time, but later returned to the city and resumed charge of his newspaper. Later he was charged with reporting on the Times-Democrat to show that a political conspiracy existed to put Whitaker in police authority. This alleged exposure resulted in the arrest of O'Malley's alleged reporter, Henry Slocum, formerly of Kansas City and Chicago, who is still in prison.
Whitaker and O'Malley are personal enemies. A year ago one of the O'Malley's reporters went into Whitaker's office and shot Whitaker, who was unarmed. O'Malley is now accused of being the leader of a corrupt ring.

HOOPSKIRTS PUT A STOP TO BUSINESS

Advent of Two Women in Crinoline on Pittsburg Streets Necessitates Police.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 15.—Pittsburg is not yet ready for hoopskirts. The appearance on the streets of two young women wearing crinolines, blocked a street car line for half an hour, suspended business in a department store, almost created a panic, caused many men to suffer from stiff necks and necessitated assistance from a detachment of police, before the young women could again reach the safety of their carriage.
The venturesome molders of fashion were Miss Genevieve Tucker of 488 Fifth avenue and Miss Henrietta Herbert of 22 Stanwick street.
The two young women reached the center of the shopping district in the carriage of Miss Tucker, and there was nothing about their appearance, so far as they sat still in the carriage, to excite comment. But when they alighted the trouble started.
They tried to enter the store doors at the side entrance of the store, but could not get through. Then they went to the front, and in the meantime a great crowd had collected, blocking the street car tracks and stopping all traffic.
Once inside the store clerks stopped their work, left their customers and joined the throng. The floorwalkers got mad and requested the young women to retire to, but they could not. Their hoops, which were not the modern three-color feathered skirts, but regulation crinolines, interfered. The house policeman was called, but was powerless. In desperation he went to the street and blew his whistle. Two other officers responded, and with drawn clubs they made an opening through which the girls passed. Several thousand people watched them as they got into their carriage. It looked like a balloon going up. One old woman, who wore hoops years ago, declared that in addition to pretty stockings, the girls wore painted faces. The police officers got into the carriage with the young women, who were driven around side street until a crowd of several thousand people was lost. The girls were badly frightened and promised not to do it again.
Barbed wire for men, women or child. See windows for prices at bookstall.
They Won Auto Race.
Thirty first, covering the 50 kilometers in 7 hours and 45 minutes. Sizs was second and Caillios third. The official decision was yet announced, owing to the difference of time at the starting. Girardot's machine was overturned at a sharp turn, but he was not seriously hurt.

TWO WOMEN KEEP SUICIDE COMPACT

Mrs. Julia Young and Miss Media Pyle Mysteriously Drowned Together.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FREDERICK, Ill., June 16.—Mrs. Julia Young and Miss Media Pyle were drowned in each other's arms. Mrs. Young was 28 years of age and had been separated from her husband for two years. Miss Pyle was but 18, daughter of one of the most influential men of the city. The two women had a mutual infatuation for each other, which was the subject of much gossip.

In vain the parents of Miss Pyle tried to break off the intimacy. Twice she had been sent away on visits and a warrant had been asked for Mrs. Young on the charge of enticing the girl from home. As the evidence was not conclusive, the warrant was denied. It was then determined to send the girl away for a year. She was told of the plan and the suicide compact is believed to be the sequel.

From the fact that a large contusion was found on Miss Pyle's head the coroner thinks that she wished to withdraw from the suicide pact, but that the older woman stunned her and dragged her into the water.

It is likely that the execution will, however, be deferred until October, as Senator Hill, Patrick's counsel, is preparing a motion for a reargument.

Dislocated Arm in Bed.

A pain in her right arm, which Mrs. Emma Meader, 60 years old, of 300 West avenue, said had first developed when she turned over in bed early Friday morning, was found by City Hospital physicians to come from the dislocation of her right shoulder. The dislocation was reduced and she was sent to her home.

MILLIONS LOST BY J. H. HYDE IN EQUITABLE WAR

Announcement by Ryan of Price Paid for Vice-President's Stock Reveals Extent of Latter's Defeat.

TRUST TO END WITH PRESENT OWNER'S LIFE

Cleveland, O'Brien and Westinghouse, Absolute While Ryan Lives, May Be Displaced by His Heirs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 16.—Thomas F. Ryan's announcement that he paid $2,500,000 for James H. Hyde's stock in the Equitable Life Assurance Society reveals the stupendous defeat sustained by the young Vice-President in the four months' war among the managers of the organization.

A $5,000,000 bona fide offer is known to have been made for the shares, at the outbreak of hostility, by a syndicate headed by E. H. Harriman and H. C. Frick. Mr. Ryan refused this proposition, regarding the price, it is said, as much too low. He would not sell out, he declared at the time, for $10,000,000.

That he should have sold out in the end for $2,500,000 shows that he must have lost at least that amount by his refusal to accept terms earlier in the fight. Mr. Ryan's statement proves that he alone bought the Equitable stock and that no one is associated with him in its ownership. The trust agreement makes Grover Cleveland, Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse absolute masters of 500 shares of stock—a majority—for a five-year term. The deed of trust also provides:

1st. That the trustees shall vote for and elect 25 directors nominated by the policy holders and elect four chosen by themselves. This gives the Equitable more complete and thorough mutualization than the plan proposed by the directors and prevented by the Justice Moore decision.

2d. The trustees are made self-perpetuating. Should one of them die his successor will be named by the two survivors.

3d. The period of the trust is restricted by law to five years. Mr. Ryan, however, pledges himself to continue the trust at the expiration of every five years as long as the trustees deem advisable. There is no agreement, however, for the continuance of the trust.

4th. Any holder of a policy which has been in force for one year or more is eligible as a nominator of the directors to be chosen by the policy holders. No matter how small a policy may be, the holder is entitled to nomination.

5th. The 32 shares purchased by Mr. Ryan will be placed in the names of the trustees and so registered upon the stockholders' books of the society.

6th. Any vote cast by the trustees must be with the unanimous approval of all three trustees.

COLLEGE BUYS TRACT.

The purchase by the Barnes Medical College of a tract at King's highway and Euclid avenue leads to the assumption that the new $1,000,000 institution will be located there. The property is in the angle formed by the effect in King's highway, and if the building were erected there it would face Forest Park and also be flanked by it on the south.

Murray Carleton, Samuel Kennard and Samuel Copley, who are to be directors of the enterprise, say that the building will be erected soon, but decline to go into details.

The property was purchased from John H. Pamplin and wife for $12,500.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The President has been made the beneficiary of an act of Congress passed six years ago granting to all officers who served out of the confines of the country during the Spanish War, two months extra pay. Thousands of men who served in the Spanish War have received their additional pay under the provisions of this statute, but the President made no application for what was due him.

As there was no application to initiate the case, the matter was finally taken up voluntarily by the officers of the War Department. The amount placed in the warrant that was sent to the President was $283.33 or $283.67 per month as Colonel of volunteers.

LOSE THE MONEY.

Washington University Students Given a Splendid Opportunity to Seize the Money, but They Do Not Grasp It.

The Post-Dispatch today presents additional clues to aid you in identifying Ivan Whin's representative, for whom this paper offers a reward of $50. This reward will be paid to the first person who says to the man whose picture is printed herewith: "I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin."

The Post-Dispatch also offers an additional $25 reward for this man, payable to the person who identifies him and on this condition: That the identifier shall have in his possession the latest edition of the Post-Dispatch obtainable in his vicinity, at the time of the identification.

No matter where the identification occurs the $25 may be earned. Due allowance will be made for the distance of the locality from the Post-Dispatch Building. Our circulation department keeps accurate records of the times at which copies of the various editions of this newspaper reach the branches where they are distributed and it is a simple task to definitely ascertain at what time any edition of the Post-Dispatch was placed in any part of the city.

Lots of persons lost opportunities to seize the representative of Ivan Whin yesterday. His $50 personality was near them; he talked with them, gave them every reasonable chance to seize the money, but they did not take it.

Read the following story of his wanderings yesterday. It may help you to catch him today.

By Ivan Whin's Representative
F YOU don't think it's hard to give money away, listen to this:
About 4:30 p. m. Thursday I started through the World's Fair grounds at the entrance opposite Washington University. I was inside when a man called out:

"Have you got a pass?"
I turned around and saw him sitting in the shade of the board fence. He said down his paper and came toward me.

"Do you have to have a pass?" I asked.

"A pass or a quarter," he said.
I started out and he picked up his paper again. Now, that paper was the Post-Dispatch and the man had been reading the "Adventures of Ivan Whin" in Franklin Avenue.

When he was engrossed in that intensely exciting narrative again I said:

"I just wanted to go through."

"Cost you a quarter," he said, looking up and then back at his paper.

"I wanted to go from the University to Forest Park."

"Cost you a quarter," jerking his eyes from the paper.

"I've seen all the Fair I wish to see. Can't I just make a short cut through?"

He laid his paper down—my own photo.

If you recognize this man he will bring you to the Post-Dispatch and you will be given $50.

When you see this man say to him: "I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin."

topograph: uppermost—and said with awful earnestness:

"Cost you a quarter!"
"All right," I answered, meekly, and retreated down the vista of his scornful gaze.

Think of that man sitting there, chirping like a parrot to get my measly quarter, when he could have had $50 for reading from the printed page:

"I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin."

I trust it has been made clear that you must give the password correctly. When, Thursday morning, M. T. Smith, merchant on the Old Water Tower Circle, said to me:

"You're not Ivan Whin, are you?"

I said: "Am I?"

So get the formula right. You ought to know it by this time. It is repeated in the Post-Dispatch several times every day.

I talked to every proprietor of a store on that Water Tower Circle Thursday morning—that is, everyone that was in his store. Where proprietors were not in I talked to the girl clerks. Just simply bounced that $50 from one doorstep to the other until I had completed the circuit.

Mostly I talked to the business men about the movement on foot to secure a commutation of the sentence of Julius Lehmann, former member of the House of Delegates, now in the Penitentiary for bootlegging.

The beautiful tower more beautiful by having electric lights placed on it.

C. H. W. Dietrich, barber at 1234, was the first to whom I talked. He favors shortening Lehmann's term, he said.

J. H. Onks, shoe dealer, said he would prefer to express no opinion.

Fred Diestelhorst, plumber, favors the commutation.

Mrs. M. Madden, owner of a bakery on the west side of the circle, said she thought Lehmann should be released.

T. H. Wurmb, druggist, said he would let the law take its course.

Ph. Schuchmann, shoe dealer, would not discuss the matter at all.

M. T. Smith, spoken of above, said: "Cut his sentence down."

A. Wocheking, grocer, said he would have the sentence shortened or Lehmann set free.

W. H. Uhlemeyer, hardware dealer, would let the law have its way.

Mrs. M. Beers, milliner, said for me to see her husband, downtown.

William Beyersdorfer, shoe dealer, said he would like to see the sentence commuted.

T. T. Turner, butcher, said that while he believed that the law should be upheld, the sentence should be shortened.

W. Roberts, hair, said: "Release him right now; he's as good as some that are running loose."

F. A. Langan, tailor, had no opinion to express.

P. A. Webber, dealer in novelties, said he favored punishment, but thought the hoodlums had learned their lesson by this Personal Description of Ivan Whin's Representative, Written by Himself.

AS FOR me, I'm young—foolishly so, almost. In truth, I have yet to cast my first vote, though I have been old enough for some months.

Friends say I am "divinely tall and slender—not so tall, either, but rather slender. I weigh 130 pounds, but being of a shrinking disposition, sometimes weigh less.

At 10 a. m. today I was just 5 feet 8½ inches in height and I have not grown, even in my own estimation, since then.

I disagree thoroughly with Ivan Whin's suggestion of offensiveness in my features. Why, I can chew tobacco, if I choose, though it's been some years since I did choose. Mostly, I smoke cigars, but I like cigarettes or a pipe.

As for minor details, my eyes are brown, of that dark shade popular last summer. My nose is crooked, indicating character, you may think, but really only telling a story of a football game long ago.

My teeth are white and large. One has a small bit of gold in it. This one is located to the left of my right-hand dimple, when I smile.

Christy doesn't draw china like mine. My hair is quite black, but not profuse.

My feet are comfortably large, and my shoes vary from 8½ to 7½, according to where I buy them.

My hands, which once looked like those of a workman, have become white and soft since I quit work to be a newspaper man.

I am given to blue serge clothes, but often wear gray and sometimes homespun. Blue ties, black ties and gray ties are my favorites, but I have worn gift ties.

And I am terribly nervous. Whenever I hear the words "Ivan Whin" I jump 10 feet.

A. Camanzind, tailor, said he was for a commutation of the sentence.

A. W. Salisbury, grocer, said he was new to the neighborhood.

That completed the circuit.

After talking to Policeman 1021 and another, who wore no badge, for awhile on the curb, I took a car southward bound. No. 349 was the conductor, as the car passed the old Fair Grounds.

It occurred to me that I might find some trace of little Harley Cavanaugh.

Harley, you must know, is merely one of my lies.

As I got off the car at Natural Bridge road, Policeman No. 1418 got on. I filed a description of Harley Cavanaugh, age 17, home in Gordon place, Kansas City, anxious to be a jockey, thought to be in St. Louis, and a lot more stuff I can't remember now, but I think I

TWO REWARDS.

The Post-Dispatch will pay $50 to the first person who says to the man whose picture is here printed: "I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin."

and Policeman No. 1029 at the Fair Grounds station.

Sergt. No. 89 is a stickler for details. He asked questions so rapidly that I kept my imagination busy. I remember I said my name was Howard Evans, but I forgot the address I gave. I rode awhile then with Conductor No. 945 on the Grand line.

About the most satisfactory experience of a whole day—full occurred on an astounded Olive car at 11 a. m.

Hereby, I lodge my complaint with that of the multitude against automobile drivers. A young man with his machine full of young ladies caused me to jump to save myself in front of the Keers Hotel, just after I had alighted from the Olive street car at 11:36 a. m. His license is No. 96.

I spent a large part of Thursday afternoon on the campus and in the Stadium at Washington University. Conductor No. 765 was in charge of Delmar car No. 232 that took me to the college grounds.

It seemed no more than fair that the school boys, who leave for home soon, should have a chance at the money before they leave.

So I was an interested spectator at the final exercises and the Junior-Sophomore ball game.

I got acquainted with "Bliss"—brief for Bishop, probably—who split his finger before the game began. Also talked with Van Horn, the Sophomore pitcher.

The trainer told me, by the way, that Van Horn will be even a better pitcher when he learns to throw his best with the ball and save himself that painful jerk in his arm.

Leaving the grounds I encountered that Exposition grounds guard who wanted my quarter.

In the shade of a box car near the street car loop sat Conductor No. 28 and Motorman No. 38, who told me how to transfer to get to the entrance of Forest Park.

Conductor No. 615 and Motorman No. 714 on the car that brought me back to the city gave me similar directions. Let me remark that street railway employees and policemen are not the only persons to whom I have talked. The frequent use of their numbers occurs only because it is an easy method of identification.

On the trip back downtown I sat across the aisle from a W. U. alumnus of the class of '71, who had just been given the honorary degree, M. A. With him was a graduate of the class of '73 and three ladies. The party was condensing the spirit of a man who had spoken ill of St. Louis.

I agree with them. St. Louis is all right—except that she refuses to take $50 of the Post-Dispatch's money.

WILLICENT—You think I said—front end of a Page car? Well, suppose I do.

M. K. N.—No, I don't have a personal complexion. Ivan Whin's description did not make it that bad. It was some other man that you saw.

H. WHITE—If you said "I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin," you used the past-tense, but the very fact that the man with the can object should tell you that you used a mistake.

Long Sermons.

Baxter, Knox, Hooper, Bunyan and Calvin rarely preached less than two hours, and often saw the sand run out in the hour glass for the third time before they came to "lastly." But one of them could rival the prolixity of the Rev. Thomas Banks, a seventeenth-century divine, who, on one occasion, after keeping his congregation over two hours, said: "And now, having cleared the ground by these few preliminary remarks, I will address myself more directly to my text."

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has houses. "First in everything."

THE GIRLS AT THE COUNTER

BY IVAN WEIN.

NO 5. QUEEN MADGE

MRS. MACKENNON thought it was a shame that "such utterly vulgar girls" were employed by Bowman, Mackennon & Stickwith when Madge Frederick was just dying to get a place and those poor Frederick orphans were so sadly in need of money. Madge taught dancing to a select few of society's little darlings. Mabel painted pretty miniatures. Her faces did not resemble the subjects, but she was skillful at painting fabrics and her faces were always pretty. So between them the box of the old home, where they still lived, was always well supplied.

If you note that the names of the three begin with M and if you are acquainted with the minds of irreverent youth you will understand why the boys always referred to the Misses Frederick as "the yum-yum girls." Additionally, they were all pretty.

Madge's accomplishments were nil. She had no skill with her feet or her fingers; she had no talent for music or aptitude for languages. There did not seem to be any very ladylike employment for which she was fitted and she was deficient in housekeeping.

Madge was the beauty of the family, a still Parian marble statue sort of a beauty. Her lips curved prettily and parted to show dazzling teeth, but not for entrancing speech. Her eyes were large and bright, but they observed little and never sparkled with intelligence. Her cheeks were faintly colored by Nature, but no emotional red ever tinted there.

She seemed born to rule by the divine right of beauty. The boys called her Queen Madge and paid her adoring devotion. Maud and Mabel called her Queenie and saved her from all the harshness of life by constant watchfulness.

For all her plump roundness, ineffectuality and stately stiffness, Madge longed to do something for her own support. Her little soul was generous and loving. To see her sisters laboring while she sat idly decorating the scene but giving no aid was a sorrow almost great enough for tears.

Yes, indeed, she was willing to work if only someone would find something she could do.

Mrs. Mackennon said Robert must certainly do something for her and Robert did all he could. He offered Madge the place behind the novelties counter.

Oh, could she do that? It didn't seem a very ladylike thing to do, but she supposed there were nice girls in stores. Maud and Mabel refused haughtily to consider the possibility of acceptance until Mrs. Mackennon made them see that the place could not be so bad as she had once filled it herself.

A Grocer's Honest Talk

"I am convinced that it always pays to handle honest goods and use honest methods to sell them. Everytime one tries to sell anything by means of schemes, premiums and other means, which were calculated to deceive the public, he fails in the attempt. The people are smart enough to know that no one is giving away anything and that all free premiums, prizes, etc., which are offered as an inducement to them to buy an article must come out of the cost of the article itself.

"This is the reason why EGG-O-SEE has succeeded so well, where all those cereal foods that resort to premium schemes have failed. EGG-O-SEE out-sells all the rest put together, many times over because it is many times the best.

"People who want pure, clean, wholesome food are buying EGG-O-SEE altogether, because they know that they get their full money's worth. The value is in the food. They don't care to have painted doll babies, dishes and other cheap premiums mixed up in the package, especially when they know that it means an inferior and injurious article of food.

"I positively will not handle these premium foods, for I know they will only injure my business in the long run. My customers rely on me to supply them with the best and purest of food products and EGG-O-SEE is the only one which fills the bill in these respects, and they all know it."

H. OETTER GRO. CO.
4400 Laclede Av., ST. LOUIS.

Could any argument be stronger for the use of this delicious food coming from this trustworthy and reliable grocer?

They escorted Madge to the store and made her installation as difficult to make as they possibly could. They lost valuable time calling at the store to make sure that she was "all right," in which vague phrase they included freedom from the stings and sorrows of outrageous fortune.

Madge had one asset beside her beauty, she was eternally amiable. Nothing and nobody ever angered her. She smiled—just so far and no farther—on all the world. Perhaps we may credit her with another asset—she was biddable. Insofar as she could, Madge always did as the authorities commanded.

Mackenon, as he was bound to be, was very kind to her, watchful, helpful and indulgent. Winters said it was the return of the golden age, like having Mrs. Mackennon back, for you must know that Winters believed through some strange freak of mental top-sy-turveness that it was Miss Maloney he had loved and not the little, blonde Marguerite.

Madge thought Winters was nice and Mackenon was dear, but she quite warmed up over a silverware drummer from New York who looked like a duke and treated one like a prince.

"Now don't you go and fall in love with a drummer," Maud said severely. "A drummer? The idea!" said Mabel.

"But he is so distinguish," pleaded Madge.

"Stuff," said Mabel.

And so what could the poor girl do but dutifully evade the drummer by pretending great absorption in her stock and her sales accounts. She tried very hard to avoid conversation with this dual appearing, pleasant mannered fellow. Maud or Mabel would have succeeded; they could be cold, aloof, disdainful. Madge could not.

Harry Browning had other advantages than distinguished appearance and fine address. He had persistence. If you sell silver novelties you can't avoid all conversation with the manufacturers' representatives from whom the firm buys, and if the representative drifts away from silverware you simply can't be impolite to him.

"See here, Browning," Stickwith said to him, "let that little girl alone. We've had a stream of girls going and coming at that counter, and I'd like to see one stick."

"She's the little birdie for mine," said Browning, using the language of the road.

"Tush! Tush! Your route's a long one and you'll see others."

Apparently Browning didn't care to see others. He was in town 10 days and tried to arrange his trip to stay long.

EGG-O-SEE

THE FOOD THAT DELIGHTS ALL

Why heat your blood and brain with heavy meat foods when EGG-O-SEE, the delicious, self-digesting food will supply more nourishment to your tissues than anything else on earth.

Large inner-lined germ-proof packages—10 cents, all grocers. It is certainly worth much more to know for yourself how tempting it truly is.

EGG-O-SEE CO., QUINCY, ILL.

er, but business inexorably called him away before he could gain admission to the Frederick home.

Madge had never in her life been quite so positive as when she told him he certainly could not call. Just the bare thought of what Maud and Mabel would say if she gave him permission made cold chills run down her spine.

After making Kansas City, St. Joe, Omaha and Sioux City Browning ought to have swung on up, through Iowa, to St. Paul. Instead of following his strict duty he came back to St. Louis for that plump little beauty behind the novelties counter wouldn't let him sleep. And an idea occurred to him.

He knew Mrs. Mackennon. Met her in New York on her wedding journey and showed her lots of attention, as was proper, considering the bills her husband bought of him. Still, Mrs. Mackennon would be apt to consider that she was in debt to him for some pleasure. He had failed to call upon her while in St. Louis and back he must go to remedy this oversight.

He did not go near the store, but made his call and was invited to dinner. Mrs. Mackennon does not know how it happened, but she talked to him of the Frederick girls, and especially of Mabel and her miniatures of gowns. She thought how nice it would be to have Mabel to dinner also, and asked her.

"Trust a New York drummer who looks like a duke to make the most of that opportunity. As a High School girl would put it, he fussed Mabel most to death. To translate, he talked to her and helped her to talk, and seemed to think that she was the brightest and most beautiful of women."

Mabel went home with her head in a whirl and talked Maud wild about the Mackennon's friend, a rich young New Yorker, Mr. Browning.

Maud began, but having a suspicion of old Eve in her nature checked her speech and listened.

Of course Browning had asked Mabel if he might call, and of course she said yes. And when he called of course he had the tact to ask for the Misses Frederick.

The young ladies went into the big old fashion parlor together, for Mabel was very eager to renew her conversation, and she had talked so much of Browning that Maud was nearly as eager, and Madge had a sense of delightful guiltiness and a fear that Browning would talk silverware.

Mabel introduced her sisters and would you believe it, Browning and Madge bowed as formally as if they had never met in all their lives.

It was a very delightful call, and after Browning was gone Maud admitted that she almost lost her heart to him. Still Madge kept silent. Would you have believed it of her?

Mrs. Mackennon gave her away and when the girls reproached her she simply said that store acquaintances were strangers outside the store, as the very well knew, and when he came to the house, properly introduced, she didn't think it was nice at all to talk shop.

It was strange the number of trips Browning had to make to St. Louis in the next six months. Formerly twice a year had been sufficient, but now wherever he went, all routes lay through St. Louis. It was rather peculiar that when in Denver he wanted to make San Francisco that he should go by way of St. Louis, but he said he preferred the Southern route and then the trade here needed constant care.

Mabel looked upon him as one of her possessions. Whenever he called she was the first in the parlor. He was still tactful and asked for them all. At Christmas he sent each of the girls a gold chain bracelet, very pretty and not unduly expensive. They held a council on the propriety of retaining the presents, but Maud found herself in a minority against retention and she wasn't keen to send hers back.

The next New Year Madge received a telegram at the store. She looked like a frightened baby when it was given to her. For never in her life had she received a telegram and it looked like battle, murder and sudden death to her eyes. When she mustered courage to open it she read:

"Am ordered to Europe. Wire answer to letter you will receive today. H. B."

The letter did not come until the following day and urged by another telegram, she wired:

"Two days later Browning reached St. Louis. He had just 50 hours between his arrival in St. Louis and the departure of his steamer from New York.

He arrived in the morning and reached the home of the Fredericks before Madge left.

In bed, Madge had breakfast with Madge attired in her painting gown. Browning burst in upon them impetuously contemptuous of the maid's endeavor to stop him.

Madge told nothing and here the whole groundwork and superstructure must be built for Mabel. Browning knew what he wanted and his time limited. He did not shrink his task, but told Mabel the whole story of his love for Madge, who sat by, pink, smiling and still.

Mabel drowned her dream in tears and then sent for Maud. The whole Maud forgot her headache, took Madge in her arms and kissed her ecstatically, crying, "I'm so glad and Mabel had, therefore, to do likewise."

Mabel was married that afternoon in a wedding gown the mother of the girls and her mother had worn. This pretty family custom proved most economical and satisfying. The Mackenons were there and a dozen other friends hastily gathered.

A caterer served dinner for all in the dining room, which in even the short space of time permitted him he had transformed.

All the wedding guests went to the station to bid their farewells and showered them with appropriate rice and old shoes.

They caught their steamer and lived happily ever after.

Mabel is another story worth telling another time.

The sixth story of this series, "A Willing Worker," will appear in the Post-Dispatch tomorrow, Saturday.

ROUND ABOUT ST. LOUIS TOWN.

She is a tolerably pretty blonde with a pompadour that is a towering Himalaya of hair. She works in a wholesale house on a street car line patronized by thousands daily. Her duties in the morning include sorting the firm's mail, and as she works she has only to raise her eyes to look through a window at the passing cars.

Hundreds of men know her by sight and look for her eagerly each morning. Occasionally there is a gleam—a very faint one—of recognition in the eyes that look from under the huge pompadour.

That girl probably has more embryo flirtations than any other stenographer in St. Louis. Her name? Even the man who dictates letters to her doesn't know it.

Coroner's Juries Much Alike.

"Coroner's juries in St. Louis are much like they are elsewhere," remarked a New Yorker at the Southern. "I see that a man had been held without bail, hence for a shooting after a Coroner's jury had declared that the killing was justifiable. The verdicts of the six men impaneled by the Coroners in New York have long been jokes."

"The funniest verdict that I recall was handed in by a jury that investigated the death of Murray Hall, who conducted an employment office in Sixth avenue, New York. Hall was a politician and a ringer. He had been married but his wife was dead and he lived with an adopted daughter. When he died the physician in attendance learned that the supposed man was really a woman, and he communicated his knowledge to the Coroner."

A jury was impaneled and the evidence was heard. Then this verdict was rendered:

"We, the jury, find that Murray Hall came to his death from natural causes. He was a lady."

"Murray Hall was buried in feminine garb as Mary Hall. The verdict will be remembered longer than New York's funny coroners will last."

Firm Names Are Too Long.

Firm names in St. Louis are too long, according to a clerk whose duty it is to make out checks in payment of bills to local merchants. He declares that there is not enough room on the average check to write the style under which certain concerns do business and he wants a charge inaugurated.

"I wish the Post-Dispatch would begin a crusade against the long names," says the clerk. "With three names in the firm and two or three words following to describe its business the title is entirely too unwieldy for business purposes."

Paid His Fare Three Times.

The traction company undoubtedly loses a good deal of money through the failure of conductors to collect a nickel from each passenger, but it occasionally makes up for a part of it by getting two fares for one ride.

"I boarded a Suburban car near my home the other day," said a man who was talking to the crowd on the rear platform, "and gave the conductor a nickel before I went into the car. When I sat down I took out a nickel to buy a paper of the first newsboy who boarded the car."

"The conductor came along before the newsboy, and as I had the nickel in my hand, he took it. A newsboy then boarded the car and I dug up a dime and bought a paper. The conductor came along again before I had put the change in my pocket and I absent-mindedly gave him another nickel. And now I am living in fear that I will tell my wife about my recklessness some time in my sleep."

Have You Played Alphabet?

"Alphabet" is the newest game to play when you are riding in a street car. As many can play as can ride, the game being to hunt for letters in the advertisements in the car until the entire alphabet is found.

The hardest letters to find are "q," "x" and "z." They are usually to be found if the search is made closely, but the man who is familiar with the advertisements will reach "z" before the beginner has passed "j."

TO MAKE CHILDREN TALL.

BY EUGENE SANDOW.

CANNOT recollect ever hearing from a really tall man or woman who wanted to know if there was any receipt for getting smaller in stature, but nearly every post brings me correspondence from medium-sized and diminutive people requesting advice as to how they can increase their height.

The girl or boy in the 'teens, or only just out of them, will find little difficulty in increasing her or his height to the extent of a few inches by merely observing a few rules to which I shall draw attention in the course of this article, says Sandow in the Chicago Tribune.

Much can be done to increase the height of young people. Great care should be taken to insure children lying straight in bed. A child has a tendency to curl the knees up toward the body, and lying in bed for many hours in this position night after night hinders growth. Without making the child parents should gently draw its legs out straight, and in this way alone probably a couple of inches extra height will be achieved, while the child will benefit bodily in other respects.

During the growing years a youth can increase his height by exercise. Body bending movements have the best effect, and will power plays a distinct and an important part. Hanging from a horizontal bar, if not accompanied by swinging or jerky movements, helps to straighten or stretch the spine without doing any harm, and helps to increase the height.

Ankle movements and exercise to develop the arch of the feet help to add just a trifle to the height; and backward and side bending movements supply and strengthen the spine, giving adults full benefit of their height and encouraging growth in youths.

More Important.

WARM WEATHER HELPS

Get Rid of Your Catarrh By Using Hyomei Now.

Everyone who has catarrh should take advantage of the warm weather to get rid of this annoying and distressing disease. The right treatment, faithfully followed, in May or June, will benefit much more quickly than in the winter and early spring.

Do not try to cure catarrh of the head and throat by taking drugs into the stomach. It cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this too common disease can be cured is through a direct application of Hyomei that will kill the germs of catarrh and prevent their growth.

The first day's use of Hyomei will show a decided improvement, and in a short time, especially if used at this season of the year, there will be no further trouble from catarrh.

You take no risk in buying Hyomei. The complete outfit costs but one dollar, and, after using, you can say that the treatment has not helped you. Judge & Dolph or Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. will return your money.

ST. LOUISANS GOING TO BIG TURNFEST

This City to Have One of the Two Largest Delegations at Indianapolis.

LOCAL MAN'S PLAY WINS

Allegorical Piece by Conrad Nies of This City to Be Produced.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 15.—The physical culture festival of the North American Gymnastic Union will be held in Indianapolis during the coming week, and the local management is expecting one of the largest delegations to come from the turnverins of St. Louis.

Twenty-nine states will send teams societies or delegations. Three thousand athletes are expected and 15,000 to 20,000 other visitors will be here. Two of the heaviest delegations will be from St. Louis and Chicago. At least 500 active participants in the athletic events will come from St. Louis, and over 200 St. Louis women will be here to take part in the mass and club drills on the afternoon of June 24. The largest class of seniors to appear in the contests will come from St. Louis.

This will be the first festival held by the Gymnastic Union where the athletes will be housed in tents near the athletic field. The Indiana State Fair Grounds, five miles from the heart of the city, is being turned into a camp ground for the athletes. The camp is to be in a beautiful tract of woods. The St. Louis athletes will have a choice spot in the camp. They will operate their own kitchens, but will draw their food supplies from a central storehouse on the grounds.

The athletic field is before a grand stand which will seat 10,000 people and is about 300 feet square, made of packed clay and gravel, over which an inch of sand has been spread. The field is surrounded on three sides by a canvas awning 20 feet wide.

The festival opens on next Wednesday night, with a torchlight procession. The visitors will be welcomed in a speech by Mayor Holtzman and Herman Lieber of Indianapolis, president of the Gymnastic Union, will also speak.

From this time the week will be crowded with gymnastic events. On Thursday morning the festival historical parade will be given. The same afternoon the athletic events begin at the Fair Grounds. On Thursday night there will be a concert at the German House, in which a combined chorus of singers from Indianapolis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Cal., and other cities and an orchestra of 60 will participate.

After a day of athletic gymnastic feats at the Fair Grounds on Friday the visitors will in the evening see the festival play, "The Glorious Three," in the largest theater in the city. The play, which will be given by a company of 10 young Germans of Indianapolis, supported by an orchestra of 42, was written by Conrad Nies of St. Louis, who defeated nine other German writers in a world's contest. His play typifies the German method of physical culture, and abounds in dances, gymnastic exercises, allegorical pictures and other ideas along spectacular lines.

On Saturday the mass movements and drills, in which all the athletes take part, and the events for women will take place on the athletic field. In the evening there will be concerts and numerous entertainments for visitors.

The festival closes on Sunday with a picnic at Germania Park, one of the most beautiful places around Indianapolis, when the winners of the contests will be announced. It is thought that this will be the largest festival the Union has held since that at the World's Fair in Chicago.

CENTENARIAN CAMPS

CENTENARIAN SAWS
WOOD TO EXERCISE

Thos. O'Connell, Aged 101, and His Wife, Aged 96, Enjoy Life.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NORTH ADAMS, Mass., June 16.
Sawing wood an hour at a time, although he is 101 years of age, is a retime in which Thomas O'Connell of the city, often engages, and at the same time his wife, aged 96 years, does most of the housework, and besides assisting her husband in doing the chores. They have lived in this city and Clarksburg a neighboring village, for upward of 70 years, and no better known couple to be found in this section of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell, both natives of Ireland, came to this country when young, and after living in various places settled in Clarksburg, which at that time was a wilderness. Mr. O'Connell purchased a large farm, and this was conducted successfully for a number of

They had four children, two of who are known to be living. One, a daughter, died a number of years ago, but another left this section while still a young man, and has not been heard from in many years. He went West and for a time worked as a laborer on a railroad. Later he took up contracting work in railroad construction and was successful.

He sent money home to his parents each month, his letter being looked for with much regularity. Suddenly this correspondence ceased, and the old couple have waited hopelessly for years, no information of their absent son has ever been received. For some time this letter has been sent to the post office daily to the North Adams Postoffice, of hearing from "her boy." Of late she has not applied to the Postoffice as rural delivery has been established and she has been told that in case a letter should arrive it will be sent by air once. She walks into the city now twice a week, spending considerable time at her church whenever she comes down from the little farm which the couple now occupy.

ST. LOUIS ROMANCE IN DIVORCE COURT

Love, Marriage and Troubles of James Took Place While Fair Was On.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Married but some months ago, Adelaide H. James made application to Justice Blanchard for an order of court directing her husband, Henry H. James, to pay her alimony at the rate of $50 a week and to her counsel a fee of $500 pending the trial of her suit for separation.
Mrs. James set forth in her complaint that she was married to James, who is a diamond expert and salesman employed by the firm of J. Dreiser & Son, of 321 Fifth avenue, in St. Louis, Mo., on Aug. 17, 1904. She was a widow at that time and had known the defendant about three and a half years. She said that James was in St. Louis, having gone there for the purpose of taking charge of an exhibit of jewels at the Exposition.

"He wrote and telegraphed me to come on for the purpose of marrying him, and I went to St. Louis and was married to him two hours after I arrived there," said Mrs. James in an affidavit.

"A short time after we were married
I found he had been previously married and had a child, and that his wife had procured a divorce from him in this State, and that under the decree he was ordered to pay to her $500 a year alimony."

Mrs. James, in her affidavit, says that she and her husband lived together in St. Louis until Dec. 2, 1904.
In this connection Mrs. James set forth that while they were at the St.

Louis Exposition her husband "went twice to Chicago and spent about three weeks in an attempt to sell a pearl necklace to Mrs. McCormick, the daughter of John D. Rockefeller."
According to Mrs. James' affidavit, the trouble which culminated yesterday in her suit for a separation on the grounds of cruelty and abandonment began two days after their marriage, when she said her husband asked her to hand to him her legacy of $10,000 from her father's estate, which she refused.

She set forth in her affidavit that he made this demand for the $10,000 because at that time he was receiving certain telegrams to take a diamond necklace out of pawn.

The nine-months bride asserted that from November, 1904, until her husband left her, in March, he refused to speak to her and completely ignored her.
James denied his wife's allegations.
The court granted her $1250 alimony and $100 counsel fees pending hearing of the case.

MOODY TO EXPLAIN SANTA FE MATTER

Attorney-General Preparing
Statement Why Assistants
Quit the Case.

By Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Attorney-General Moody will issue a statement regarding the withdrawal of Messrs.
Harmon and Judson as special counsel for prosecution of the Santa Fe Railroad for giving rebates in violation of the law. This will be prepared and made public at an early date, but not until the points involved have been adjusted to the satisfaction of both parties to the controversy.

In order to avoid a wide discrepancy in opinions, Mr. Moody communicated with Mr. Harmon, suggesting that a common basis be arranged, and Mr.
Harmon telegraphed that his views will be maintained. After receiving this telegram Mr. Moody gave out the following statement:

"There seems to be no good reason why the exact point of difference between Messrs. Harmon and Judson and myself, which led to their retirement from the case, should not be made public, and a complete statement will seasonably be made. I wrote Mr. Harmon some days ago, suggesting that if a statement of that difference should be made it ought to be one upon which I agreed and asking his views as to how the statement should be made. I received a telegram from Mr. Harmon saying my letter had been received and that he was now answering it. Before making any further statement I shall await Mr. Harmon's answer."

Attorney-General Moody is keeping his own counsel with reference to the prosecution of the Santa Fe Railway, either as a corporation or through its officials, for the illegal granting of rebates. Although the direct charge has been made that the present delay is for the purpose of permitting the statute of limitations to intervene so as to give the offenders immunity under the law, and that the defendant is to allow Mr.

Morton to retire from the Navy Department before he is made a defendant in the case, Mr. Moody will say nothing on this subject.

The only known facts are that Messrs.
Harmon and Judson were designated to go over all the evidence obtainable and determine whether a successful prosecution could be conducted. They performed their work and submitted a report which is believed to have declared the evidence adequate and recommending that the facts be laid before the grand jury at Albuquerque, N. M., or elsewhere, for the presentation of indictments. Differences of opinion then arose between the Attorney-General and the special counsel, which resulted in the withdrawal of Messrs. Harmon and Judson from the case.

The first explanation on behalf of the Government will be that indicated by

IN WATER SIXTEEN YEARS Note in Bottle Thrown in Dela- ware River in 1899, Found.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—In the spring of 1899 Peter D. Katchledge, a business man of this place, while on a fishing crayfish on the Delaware River, wrote a note on a sheet of paper and inclosed it in a bottle with his name and address, requesting whoever found it to return it to him and receive a reward.
Nothing was ever heard of the bottle of message until yesterday, when he received a package by mail. Upon opening it he found the bottle and the message that he had set adrift years before. A note accompanied the bottle saying it had been found along the coast by a woman. Mr.
Katchledge will reward the finder.

FRENCH FORESTALL EMPEROR WILLIAM

Score Point in Moroccan Game With War Lord Who Would Be Europe's Master.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and
New York World.
LONDON, June 15.—The Government is advised that the French Mediterranean fleet is lying off Tangier ready for business.

It has been sent there in connection with the strained relations that exist between Emperor William and the French Government over Moroccan affairs.

The Government is also advised that Italy and Austria have notified the Moroccan Government of their acceptance of the invitation of an international conference on Moroccan affairs, provided that the Powers immediately concerned accept it.

Here the rub. If France does not accept the invitation, which all European powers now know was instigated by Germany, then the conference is off.

In these two things France has scored on William—getting her warships on the scene first and the conditional acceptance of the invitation of Morocco.
Dispatches from Berlin received here today assert that officers high in the German Government make no secret that since the battle of Liao Yang Emperor William, from the point of view of that event how weak was France's ally, Russia, determined that he would force the French to openly occupy a position of secondary importance in European affairs.

His ultimate scheme is to force France to break from the entente now existing with Great Britain and compel her to seek the friendship of Germany, acknowledging the supremacy of William over all continental Europe.
In connection with this it is asserted at Paris that William's lie at France has been greatly aroused over what he believes is a hard and fast, and defensive alliance between France and England.

And he proposed to undo it.

MUSICAL PRODIGY IS A HIGH ROLLER

Russian Boy Violinist Pawned
Aunt's Diamonds and Sees Coney Island.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 15.—Daniel Wisnewski, the boy violinist of Russia, who came to this country a few months ago under the management of Conductor Damrosch, is not attending strictly to music.

He was a prisoner in the Harlem Police Court charged with the larceny of all his aunt's diamonds and with squan-dering the proceeds—$500, advanced by pawnbrokers—in three days at Coney Island.

"That's a lot of money for a boy to spend," said Master Grane sternly, eyeing the youthful prisoner.

"Pshaw, judge," replied the young Russian, "I have dropped a thousand a day in Paris and thought nothing of it."

Young Wisnewski's father has wealth and high social position in St.
Petersburg, where the talented but wayward Daniel was born 17 years ago, and when 14 years of age the Russian critics praised him as the world's greatest child violinist.

Then the proud father presented to him a costly Stradivarius and a manager took him on a tour of Europe.
Arrived in this city several months ago,
Wisnewski appeared twice at Catnegie Hall, scoring an artistic triumph.
But the talented young Russian, loving leisure more than art, side-stepped many engagements, to the wrath of his managers, and took life comfortably with his adoring mother.

On Friday last Louis Sorkin, an uncle of Russia's boy violinist, gave a musical at his home. The gifted Daniel captivated the guests with music of his Stradivarius. He was invited to pass the night with his proud relatives and consented to do so.

But he failed to appear at breakfast and the uncle discovered he had left the house. Then the discovery was made that a jewel case holding 1200 worth of diamonds belonging to Mrs.
Sorkin had vanished also. Inquiry was made at the apartments of his mother for Daniel, but he was not there. Then Mr. Sorkin appealed to the police.

"Certainly, I took 'em and I pawned
'em," he said. "You will find 'em, gentlemen. I'm strung along Third avenue and the Bowery, from Eightieth to City Hall, one piece to a pawnshop."

Tickets in his possession verified the truth of his story. There was only a $1 bill and a 5-cent piece in the boy's pocket.

"Why, I spent 'em like a little man," explained Daniel. "I made the acquaintance of a lively little girl and took her down to Coney Island. Our first dinner cost me 25 and I gave the girl a 50 note, just for luck."

His uncle, having recovered all the jewels, will not press the charge.

SECRETARY HAY RETURNS HAPPY AND IN HEALTH

Secretary of State, Landing at New York, Meets Messenger at Quarantine With Communication From Roosevelt.

NON-COMMITTAL ON ITS CONTENTS OR HIS PLANS

Believed His Arrival at This Time Has to Do With Russo-Japanese Peace Negotiations—At Whitney Home.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 16.—When John Hay, Secretary of State, and next to President Roosevelt, probably the most important man in the affairs of this country, returned from Europe last night on the steamship Baltic, he was greeted at the quarantine by a special messenger from President Roosevelt.

What the messenger brought was not made known, but it made Mr. Hay very happy. Today he is a captive at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Payne Whitney, and no one but the Whitney family has succeeded in winning his attention.

Mr. Hay has been abroad since the middle of last March, and when he left there he was a very sick man. He returned in apparent good health.

The stirring events between Russia and Japan, one might suppose to be beyond the attention of the "stick man" of the administration, but the fact that Mr. Hay was in close touch with everything that has occurred in Washington could not have been better illustrated than when he said:

"From what I can learn the movement is toward peace, and this country leads in that movement. What more would you expect me to say at this time?"

Mr. Hay was asked if he had read the note of President Roosevelt addressed to both of the powers suggesting peace. In reply to this he said:

"All of this has occurred since I left the other side. However, I will say this much: I knew before I left the other country that such a move was in prospect. I was thoroughly acquainted with the tone of the note that was addressed to both powers, and it is only natural that I should agree in every particular with the contents of that note."

Further than this Mr. Hay absolutely refused to discuss any question of public importance.

The Baltic did not dock until almost midnight, but despite all offers of special privilege Mr. Hay chose to throw his lot with the rest of the passengers. He was met at the pier by his daughter, Mrs. Payne Whitney, and her husband, who immediately upon his arrival carried him in a public automobile to their home. When asked if he intended to go immediately to Washington Mr. Hay replied:

"You can see that I am not my own master. I am really in the hands of my friends."

When asked regarding his health, he said:

"I am feeling splendidly. As you possibly can observe, I am about 100 per cent better than when I left America."

That Mr. Hay is much improved in health was perfectly apparent to those who saw him when he left this country last March. At that time he was incapable of boarding the ship without assistance. Last night when the Baltic docked he walked ashore with a firm and steady tread. His movements were those of an alert, wide-awake man, and despite his reliance on all questions of great public importance, he showed that he was thoroughly in touch with all the great questions that confront this country.

As he stepped into the automobile Mr. Hay was asked when he would return to Washington. His reply was:

"I am delighted to be back in America, and I am going home now with my daughter. I shall return to Washington when she is tired of me."

It is believed his coming at this time means he will have an active hand in Russo-Japanese peace negotiations and that the President's messenger had to do with pending conferences.

STOLE CASH REGISTER.

While Bartender "Snosed" the Night's Receipts Went.

Business was slow at the saloon at 1819 Market street at 3 o'clock Friday morning and James Sheehan, the bartender, took a chair and sat out in front. He dozed as he sat and when a customer awakened him and he went inside he found that the cash register, containing $65, had disappeared.

An open side door showed where the thief had come in and where the thief had the cash register had gone out. The register was found later at Eighteenth and Chestnut streets. The money was gone. So was the thief.

COURT PROTECTS FOURTH ST. TRACKS

Ruling out the question whether William K. Kavanaugh, trustee of the Fourth Street & Arsenal Railway, had abandoned the franchise, Judge Hough made permanent Friday a temporary injunction preventing Charles Varrelmann, former Street Commissioner, and Thomas B. Carter, Supervisor of City lighting, from interfering with the operation of the railway by tearing up its tracks.

Any question as to the abandonment of the franchise, Judge Hough ruled, should be decided by quo warranto proceedings. Cars would have been running on the road Jan. 20, Mr. Kavanaugh said, had not Commissioner Varrelmann threatened to remove the poles.

The city's action in tearing down the overhead work of the road was justified, Judge Hough said, by the dilapidated condition of poles and feed wires.
